

Policy

funzionale.com

funzionale.com as a property on the internet is my vehicle to experiment with server side technology. The part that is visible on the world wide web (<https://funzionale.com/> or 'funzionale') serves as a promotional tool and business card. I do not track any visitors or store personal information. If you wish to do business with me then you need to contact me. It is not done on the web

I am located in the European Union and the applicable laws are those of the country of Belgium where I am domiciled

I have made funzionale using software and artwork that has been made free to use under license and in accordance with the law on the condition that the original license is adhered to and passed on. Any further use of those elements without reference to the license therefore constitutes a violation of the law funzionale does not use cookies or other mobile identifying technology. For an explanation what cookies are and how you can block or remove them in your browser please check out <https://www.internetcookies.org/> if you visit funzionale you could still receive cookies or encounter other mobile identifying technology from third parties that are helping to deliver functionality on the website. I am disclosing those here, together with the links to their respective policies:

- Cloudflare, used for performance and security (<https://support.cloudflare.com/hc/en-us/articles/200170156-Understanding-the-Cloudflare-Cookies>)
- Google, providing the blog (<https://policies.google.com/technologies/cookies?hl=en-US>)
- Twitter, micro blog and social media capability (<https://help.twitter.com/en/rules-and-policies/twitter-cookies>)

be aware that information obtained by these third parties through such technologies may be processed outside of the European Union and a friendly suggestion that you can trust me and you can trust this policy to be truthful. I have done my best to secure and test funzionale according to the industry guidelines (<https://developer.mozilla.org/en-US/>) This does not mean you are done looking after yourself